To Teachers and Township Trustees of Calhoun County.

The law provides that the next payroll shall be made out and forwarded to the State superintendent on the 15th of March.

From several townships I have received no contracts and the teachers and trustees of such are hereby notified to forward me their contracts by the above date, or said teachers will have to wait until the 1st of July for their money.

The names of at least two trustees must be signed to each contract except in fractional townships with only one trustee. It is hardly necessary to add that trustees should make every effort to agree among themselves as to the pay of teachers upon a basis of fairness and justice.

Each trustee must consider the educational interests of the whole township instead of his own immediate neighborhood alone.

WHAT ALF TRUITT SAW.

Improvements, Big Hogs and old People.

Mr. Alf Truitt has returned from a trip through the country to White Plains. He says he saw more improvements along the way and signs of activity among the farmers than is generally seen at this season of the year.

He spent Sunday night with Uncle Joel Clay on Quatilla creek. This old gentleman has three hogs that will weigh 1,500 pounds, the largest tipping the beam between 600 and 700.

The old gentleman has some peculiar notions and will not shear the mane or tail of his mules and consequently they appear very much like horses. Truitt says the tails on these mules touch the ground as they walk. He also visited an aged brother and three old spinster sisters, whose combined ages are over 360 years. Neither of them have ever married. They live alone in a little log hut and are supported by contributions from kind people who visit them.—Hot Blast.

THROUGH THE SOUTH.

THE CREAM OF CURRENT EVENTS IN A FEW LINES.

What Has Happened During the Week at Various Points in the Southern States.

RATON, N. C., Feb. 17.—The Populists in the legislature, very absolutely outvoted when the Democratic members arose as with one man and passed a bill in the house to repeal the charter of the state Farmers' Alliance granted four years ago. The bill to repeal was agreed upon by the Democratic caucus, and will pass the senate, every Democrat supporting it.

The bill is entitled "an act for the relief of the stockholders of the state alliance business agency." Its preamble sets forth that:

"Whereas, large sums of money and other property have accumulated under the charter of 1899, and whereas, all the stockholders are believed to be personally liable for all debts and liabilities of the corporation but have no voice in its control or management, under the terms of the charter; therefore, to enable the stockholders to obtain a settlement of the affairs of the corporation, and have their money returned to them, it is enacted, that the attorney general, upon the request of any stockholder of the alliance, shall institute suit in the name of the state for the purpose of having a receiver appointed to wind up its affairs and to distribute to individual stockholders the fund contributed by them as members of any county or subordinate alliance or district.

There is about $50,000 of the fund, not a cent of which can be secured, by those who contributed it, and it is openly charged that it is about to be used in the interest of the People's party, the president of the alliance, as well as its secretary and business agents, being extreme members of that party. A receiver will be asked, for immediately. Most of the fund was contributed by persons not now all alive.

A bill was introduced to recharter the alliance, and to place it under the control and management of the farmers' interest, authorizing it to conduct a mercantile or manufacturing business, operate warehouse and stock yards, and to manufacture fertilizers. No individual member is to be liable for any obligation contracted by officers.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 22.—Colonel J. R. Yledge of Texas, the president of the Cotton Bureau, passed through the city en route for Birmingham, Atlanta and Savannah. He reported the prospects of the bureau to be very in the extreme. Funds to the amount of $5,000,000, he says, have been contracted for with Liverpool cotton men and capitalists through an agent of the bureau, who was sent to Europe for that purpose.

The funds are to be placed in New Orleans, and thence distributed by the executive officers of the bureau among the cotton growers in the form of loans, security being given by contracts for the delivery of cotton direct to spinners from the plantations. The Executive were so favorably impressed with the scheme that they proposed further to put on a line of steamships between Liverpool and New Orleans to carry the cotton at reduced rates, provided the heavy English bonds in exchange. The bureau declined to bind itself to such an arrangement, but a representative of the English syndicate will visit this country in the spring, and endeavor to make some bargain of that kind.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17.—The committee on constitution and bylaws for the United Confederate Veterans has been holding session for the session for days in this city. The committee have completed their labors and will make a unanimous report to the next reunion to be held at Birmingham, Ala., on the 16th of July next. The constitution, as agreed upon by the representatives of the general committee and staff officers of brigadier generals. It also provides for three departments to be known as the Army of Northern Virginia, the Army of Tennessee, and the Army of Trans-Mississippi.

But one major general is to be allowed to a state or territory. States and territories may be divided into brigades by vote of the camp. New Orleans was made permanent headquarters for the federation. Bylaws and rules of order were adopted by the committee. The work of the committee has been approved by all prominent confederates to whom it has been submitted.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 21.—Last fall Bert Wing, a well known sporting man of this city, killed his wife in a house of ill-fame. She was the daughter of Judge Eaves, a prominent jurist and respected citizen of Greenville, Ky. Wing was put on trial charged with murder, and pleaded guilty. Judge Eaves arose and said:

"Gentlemen of the jury, by permission of the court I wish to state that I am the father of Miriam Eaves. I wish also to state that it will be satisfactory to me if this jury fixes the punishment of the prisoner at life in the penitentiary."

Judge Jackson charged the jury, telling them they might fix the punishment at death or life imprisonment. That body filed out and soon returned, bringing in a verdict of life imprisonment. Judge Jackson pronounced the sentence and told the prisoner he owed his life to the man whose daughter he had killed.

BEAUFORT, S. C., Feb. 21.—The decision in the case of South Carolina vs. the Port Royal and Augusta Railway company, was rendered by the court in Beaufort, has been received by the clerk of the Beaufort county court for filing. The decision makes the appointment of J. H. Averill as receiver of the road permanent, authorizing him to continue the management of the road. The court for possession of the property. Colonel Averill is further ordered to give security to the amount of $10,000, as a guarantee of his administration of the road.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 21.—Address have been received at Fort Sam Houston from Fort Ringgold, telling of the arrest by Captain John L. Betts of the late Governor of Texas, Francisco Benavides. The revolutionist prisoners have been on the loose since the trouble began, and are understood to have been begged without bloodshed. Everything is now quiet.

In the extradition proceedings against Francisco Benavides, the revolutionist chief, but one witness was examined and the prosecution closed. The defense will rely principally upon an attempt to impeach the testimony of some of the material witnesses in the prosecution.

Nation's New Servants!

COMING OF GROVER CLEVELAND!

My Grandest Son Now at the Helm.

Wheel During a Storm, but Sturdily Steers Into Shine--An Inaugural Address Replete With Wisdom.

March 4. Mr. Cleveland's inaugural address is a popular disposition to expect from the operation of government, special and direct. The verdict of our voters, which condemned the injustice of maintaining protection for protection's sake, enjoins upon the people's servants the duty of exposing and destroying the brood of kindred evils which are the unwholesome progeny of paternalism.

This is the bane of republican institutions and the constant peril of our government by the people. It degrades to the purposes of wily craft the plan of rule our fathers established and bequeathed to us as the object of our love and veneration.

It perverts the patriotic sentiment of our countrymen, and tempts them to a pitfall of calculation of the sordid gain to be derived from their government's maintenance. It undermines the self-reliance of our people, and substitutes in its place dependence upon governmental favoritism; it stifles the spirit of true Americanism and stupefies every ennobling trait of American citizenship.

The lessons of paternalism ought to be unlearned and the better lessons taught, that while the people should particularly and cheerfully support their governments, its functions do not include the support of the people. The acceptance of this principle leads to a refusal of bounties and subsidies which burden the labor and thrive of a portion of our citizens to aid ill advised or languishing enterprises in which they have no concern. It leads also to a challenge of wild and reckless which overlap the bounds of a grateful recognition of patriotic service, and prostitute to vicious uses the people's prompt and generous impulse to aid those disabled in their country's defense. Every thoughtful American must realize the importance of checking at its beginning any tendency in public or private station to regard frugality and economy as virtues which we may safely outgrow. The toleration of this idea results in waste of the people's money by their chosen servants, and encourages prodigality and extravagance in the home life of our countrymen. Under our scheme of government the waste of public money is a crime against the citizens, and a contempt of our people for economy and frugality in their personal affairs deplorably shows the strength and sturdiness of our national character. It is a plain dictate of honesty and good government that public expenditures should be

and that this should be measured by the rules of strict economy, and it is equally clear that frugality among the people is the best guaranty of a contented and strong support of free institutions.

One mode of misappropriation of public funds is avoided when appointments to office instead of being the rewards of partisan activity are awarded to those whose efficiency promises a fair return of work for the compensation paid to them. To secure

FITNESS AND COMPETENCY

of appointees to office, and to remove from political action the de-normalizing madness for spoils, civil service reform has found a place in our public policy, and laws. The benefits already gained through this instrumentality and the further usefulness it promises entitle it to party support and the encouragement of all who desire to see our public service well performed, or who hope for the elevation of political sentiment and the purification of political methods.

The existence of immense aggregations of kindred enterprises, and combinations of business interests, formed for the purpose of

and fixing prices, is inconsistent with the fair field which ought to be open to every independent activity. Legitimate strife in business should not be superseeded by enforced concession to the demands of combinations that have the power to destroy, nor should the people be served less the benefits of competition which usually results from wholesome competition.

These aggregations, and combinations frequently constitute conspiracies against the interests of the people, and in all their phases they are unnatural and opposed to our American sense of fairness. To the extent that they can be reached and restrained by federal power, the general government should relieve our citizens from their interference and exertions. Loyalty to the principles upon which our government rests positively demands that that equality before the law which it guarantees to every citizen should be in all parts of the land. The enjoyment of this right follows the badge of citizenship wherever found, and unimpaired by race or color, it appeals for recognition to American manliness and fairness.

OUR RELATIONS WITH THE SOILS.

Located within our borders impose upon us responsibilities we cannot escape. Humanity and consistency require us to treat them with forbearance, and in our dealings with them to honestly and considerately regard their rights and interests. Every effort should be made to lead them through the paths of civilization and education to self-supporting and independent citizenship. In the meantime as the nation's wards they should be promptly defended against the cupidity of designing men and shielded from every influence or temptation that retards their advancement.

The people of the United States have deemed that on this day the control of their government in its legislative and executive branches shall be given to a political party pledged in the most positive terms to the accomplishment of

TARIFF REFORM.

They have thus determined in favor of a more just and equitable system of federal taxation. The agents they have chosen to carry out their purpose are bound by their promises, not less than by the command of their masters, to devote themselves unwaveringly to this service. While there should be no surrender of principle our task must be undertaken wisely and without vindictiveness. Our mission is not punishment, but rectification of wrongs. If in lifting the burdens from the daily life of our people we reduce inordinate and unequal advantages too long enjoyed, this is but a necessary incident of our return to right and justice. If we ex-act from unwilling minds acquiescence in the theory of an honest distribution of the fund of governmental beneficence treasured up for all, we but insist upon the principle which underlies our free institutions. When we proclaim that the necessity for revenue to support the government furnishes the only justification for taxing the people, we announce a truth so plain that its denial would seem to indicate the extent to which judgment may be influenced by familiarity with the perversions of the taxing power, and when we seek to stimulate those elements of American character which support the hope of American achievement, anxiety for the redemption of their pledges which my party has made, and solicitude for the complete justification of the trust the people have reposed in us, constrain me to remind those with whom I am to co-operate that we can succeed in doing the work which has been specially set before us only by the most sincere, harmonious, and disinterested effort.

Even if insuperable obstacles and opposition prevent the consummation of our task, we shall hardly be excused, and if failure can be traced to our fault or neglect we may be sure the people will hold us to swift and exacting accountability. The oath I now take to preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States not only impressively defines the great responsibility I assume, but suggests obedience to the constitution and amendments as the rule by which my official conduct must be governed. I shall to the best of my ability and within my sphere of duty preserve the constitution by loyally protecting every grant of federal power it contains by defending all its restraints when attacked by impatience and restlessness and by enrobing its limitations and reservations in favor of the states and the people. Fully impressed with the gravity of the duties that confront me and mindful of weakness, I should be appalled if it were my lot to bear unaided the responsibilities which await me. I am, however, saved from discouragement when I remember that I shall have the support and counsel and co-operation of wise and patriotic men who will stand at my side in the cabinet or will represent the people in their legislative halls. I find also much comfort in remembering that my countrymen are just and generous, and in the assurance that they will not condemn those who by sincere devotion to their service, deserve their forbearance and approval. Above all I know there is a supreme being who rules the affairs of men and whose goodness and mercy have always followed the American people, and I know He will not turn from us now if we humbly and reverently seek his powerful aid.

Mr. Frank T. Howard, of New Orleans, has recently become the purchaser of the celebrated Goodnight or Quittaque Ranch, noted as one of the finest cattle ranges in Texas. The ranch, which is situated in the heart of the Texas Panhandle, and in the center of one of the finest wheat producing regions of the world, contains 150,000 acres of land and owns and maintains over one hundred miles of fence. To merely ride round its borders is two days' journey, and in its area are found vast undulating prairies, hills, valleys and rivers, while on its plains over 16,000 head of cattle are now grazing. The New Orleans Times-Democrat says Mr. Howard proposes at an early date to break up his property into small, easily-handled farms and sell them to actual settlers at such a price and on such easy terms as will be a revelation to the emigrants from the overcrowded regions of the North and East. Mr. Howard paid nearly $500,000 in cash for this splendid domain.

At the recent session of the Alabama Legislature a bill was passed authorizing the clerk of any board of revenue or court of county commissioners to pay out of the county treasury a sum not to exceed $40 per annum to any Confederate soldier or sailor who is incapacitated on account of blindness, or by reason of the loss of an arm, or leg from earning a livelihood.

NEARLY TWENTY-KILLED.

Victims of the Cyclone's Fury in Georgia.

Terrible Suffering Everywhere.

Knoxville, Tenn., March 5. A vestibule train No. 3 of the Washington and Chattanooga fast line, due here at 2:35 o'clock, was seven hours and a half late to day. The cause of the delay was partly due to an accident at Rogersville, Tenn.

A small cyclone struck across Hawkins County, doing considerable damage and blowing a large tree across the railway tracks. The vestibule car hit this obstruction with a full head of steam. Fifty-eight panes of glass were broken in the train and one man, whose name could not be ascertained, was slightly injured. The train was not delayed or otherwise damaged.

At Odessa, six persons, names unknown.

At Molena, Mrs. Felt and four negroes.

At Woodbury, a white child and two negroes.

At Greenville, a negro woman.

Near Barnesville, Andrew R. Vire.

The number of the injured is great, and the probabilities are that half has not been told. It is impossible to give a complete list.

At Greenville the greatest damage was done. Of 200 houses of that town not more than fifty remain intact. Great suffering is reported from there. The center of the town is completely demolished. Half of the houses of the town have been razed to the ground. That there was no greater loss is remarkable.

APPEALS FOR AID.

ATLANTA, Mar. 5.—Reports from the center of the cyclone disturbance show that the great destruction caused will call for relief. Many of the cyclone sufferers are in a destitute condition, having been rendered homeless and homeless by the wind, with not a vestige of clothing except the garments they had on their backs. They were exposed to the biting cold. Starvation stares some of them in the face. At a meeting held in Greenville appeals for assistance were given out. The statement of the facts are brief, but terrible. The town is now a scene of desolation, many of her elegant homes as well as her humble cottages are destroyed and numbers of families are destitute, penniless and homeless. Four of her churches and her beautiful college have been leveled to the dust. This is a calamity which cannot be relieved by the sufferers falling back upon insurance companies, but relief must come, if it comes at all, from the promptings of Christian beneficence and human pity and generosity. It is to such sentiments in the bosoms of our fellow citizens of every kind that we appeal.

SHOCKING DETAILS.

MERIDIAN, Mar. 5.—Mayor Dai issued a proclamation this morning calling upon citizens to contribute funds for the relief of distressed victims of the cyclone at Marion, Toomsula, Keewana, Pachuta and Barnett. It has been impossible so far to even approximate the financial loss occasioned by the cyclone, but it will go in the hundreds of thousands.

A. J. Keeton, one of the richest merchants at Toomsula, is left penniless, all of his property having been swept away by the storm.

Armed was blown out of its mother's arms at Marion and instantly killed his mother, escaping without injury.

The funeral of five victims of the cyclone's wrath occurred at Marion today. The funeral home well and the majority will recover. The only deaths reported from Marion today were two negroes, who had been injured by falling trees.

Nine bodies have been recovered from the wreckage at Barnett station, seven of them being members of the family of Daniel Barnett.

Mrs. Sarah Harrington, an aged widow who lived with her daughter at Barnett, was blown away and her body not yet recovered.

Many pranks of the wind's fury are reported. Water was blown out of a tank at Barnett, while the tank itself was not damaged in the least. A fine Jersey cow was blown a mile at Pachuta and alighted on the Baptist church uninjured.

He wants a fair remuneration for his labor.

He wants to see class legislation abolished.

He wants more money than he can trade may be tabulated.

He wants free and fair competition and purity in politics.

He wants the free carriage of all crops and more circulation.

He wants an equal representation in the legislative department.

He wants no speculation in the price of the products of the farm.

He wants everybody to have a free and fair chance in the race of life.

He wants an equal chance with men engaged in other occupations.

He wants to see all men successful who are engaged in the pursuit of legitimate enterprises.

He wants to see the genius of man directed to the development of the country's resources.

He wants to see this republic a government of the people, for the people and by the people.

He wants reduced rates on the transportation of the product of labor, in order to place him nearer the consumer.

He wants the financial system so modified that money will become the beneficent agency of commerce instead of its master.

The New York Recorder asks, "What would Col. Herbert of the Confederate Army have said thirty years ago if a gypsy fortune teller in the Wilderness where he was then fighting against the Union Army had predicted that he would some day be named to the command of the Union Navy Department?"

The Charleston News and Courier makes the timely and appropriate answer that "if he were careful in his speech he would probably have said simply that such an event could only come to pass by reason of United States conquering the Confederate States and absorbing the citizens thereof. If he were a profane man, there is no telling what he would have said." His public service have long since proven his devotion to the Union, and no one will ever know the difference now.

The Local Paper.

Governor Francis, of Missouri, who appreciates the value of a local paper, gives the following reasons why it should be patronized.

"Each year the local paper gives from $199 to $1,000 in free lines to the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The editor, in proportion to his means, does more for his country than any other ten men; he ought to be supported not because you like him and his writing, or not supported because you don't like him and disagree with his writings, but all should support a local paper because it is the best investment a community can make; it may not be brilliantly edited or crowded with thought, but financially it is more benefit to the people than the teacher or preacher. Understand me, I do not say morally or intellectually, but financially, and yet on the moral question you will find more of the local papers on the right side. Today the editors of the home papers do the most for the least money of any men on earth."

The new election law promises to cut both ways, and our politicians are wondering on both sides as to who it will hurt most. While it will cut off a considerable element that from a standpoint of intelligence is unfit for franchise on the other hand, as charged by the Kolbites the black belt boxes have been stuffed heretofore, that sort of work is now impossible, so that while one side loses its ignorant element the other loses all opportunity if it ever improved it, to swell majorities unlawfully—Tallades Reporter.

Gen. Mahone lives at Chamberlain in Washington. He is the same quaint little man no bigger than a pint of cider that he always was, says the Philadelphia Press. He has a long beard and a long head. He is "port, chipper and sassy," and has lots of sand. He is somewhat profane and of an every-day sort that even a fool can understand. The General is rich and can afford to wear clothes that are out of style and costly. He wears a white slouched hat, which he has made to order, and which cost more money than any other slouched hat in the country, and his shoes have been made for years by the same man, who selects the finest calfskin and lines the shoes with satin.

Senator-elect Beckwith, of Wyoming, is the wealthiest man in the State, thus being up to the full qualifications for a Senator these times. While he is a Democrat, his reputation is confined entirely to the West and to a large extent to Wyoming and his own ranch. Thirty years ago he worked his way across the plains with a bull team to Cheyenne, and identified himself with the community by building its first house and opening a grocery. When the railroad came, and went he went on with it and before he settled in Evanston he was a rich man. He owns the local bank, herds of cattle and tracts of range, coal mines and coal and timber lands. Horses are his hobby and he breeds trotters on the finest farm in the mountains. He was born in New York in 1833, but was trapping in Missouri at fifteen. His wealth assures him a leading place in the Senate.

Edwardsville has improved as much as any town of its size within the past three or four years. During that time, she has built seven good, substantial brick business houses, which would be a credit to a city of ten times her population. She has greatly improved her streets sidewalks. One new church and several good residences have been erected. Within this year, at least three more brick buildings will be put up. The town does not owe a dollar, and is on the way to great success. Now, let us secure half a dozen small industries, and all will be well. — Edwardsville Standard News.

QUALITY
ALABAMA
Is the "bone and sinew" of every garment in our stock, and on our reputation. Every day swells the chorus of praise that are sent to the success of our achievements. The hundreds of patrons who already sounded the depths of our resources this season are continuing to say: "WE MAKE THE CLOTHING WE SELL SEEMS TO BE EVERYONE WITH CONFIDENCE. We claim for it, but it is just what it is."

It is the Finest that Can be Made
Cause is the parent of effect. We couldn't give you the service you are entitled to—depend on the trade for our help; so we jumped to the breach ourselves, rolled up our sleeves and went to work on our own. We put the Best Fabrics, the mills of the world weave—in the hands of Most Expert Artisans, and kept a zealous watch over every step. It could come out of such a combination but perfection? Make your own. All we need is a hint of your desire, and we can parade before you a stock of Fall Suits and Overcoats that so far exceeds in quantity and variety the vain boasts of others as to drop them into the sea. Judge by our stock, not by our words. Call at our establishment exclusively to our stock.

CLOTHING
crowded to their utmost capacity with the latest patternings of fashion. Then bring this magnificent display in contrast with the meager assortments others are showing.
Roll the resources of any three of them together, and we are leaders. Take our prices into account. The same enterprise that perfected qualities has curtailed the costs. We have brought both ends of the scale together—The Highest Values and the Lowest Prices. In every one of our grades, from $10 to $40, in both Suits, Overcoats, you may rest assured you are getting

FULL VALUE
In the Boy's and Children's Department you will find we have followed the fashion through all her various moods. The superior quality that insist shall be a known quality in everything we show; leaves us only most notable fountains to draw from. Two Piece Short Pants Suits, Pants Suits, Heaters or Overcoats, are all original effects, selected and made up to our notion, and left to our exclusive control. We are not taking idly. These are facts, and you need not be a clothing expert to appreciate them. They are self-evident.
Calls are being made for the heavier overgarments. Ours are ready to stand on the same chord of consistent perfection, what a wealth of variety is awaiting your inspection.

After the races the cock pit was sought, and many the shrill clarion of an Irish gray or chivalrous red that was forever hushed by ugly

This magnificent estate is now and has been for years the property of R. W. Corbin, of the Rue Kleber, Paris, France, who remits monthly installments to Capt. Wyly, of Darien to pay old "Hardtimes" "Ishmael, the keeper of the keys" and ten other old negroes who were to the manor born and have never deserted it.

The strangest part of the whole thing lies in the fact that a few years before the war, after a brilliant season of deer hunting, racing cock fighting and mirth making, the lord of the manor and his guests departed in a fleet of vessels down the Altamaha never to return. There the old house still remains, sumptuously furnished with soft carpets, delicately shaded upholstery and tapestries, candelabras, silver and chinaware, oil paintings, oval portraits, canopy topped, cedar ceiled vermillion painted bedsteads and every known species of anti-bellum luxury that contributed to bodily comfort or appealed the most trod its thresholds amid the departing day, when twilight lets her curtains down, the paintings and statuary held me in their thrall. I stood

May be some Enoch Arden here found his love or else some East Lynne its foundation laid. I withdrew from its walls into the slow darkness that followed the waning light, "when evening shades prevail, and the moon took up the wondrous tale."

Bidding "Hardtimes" and "Ishmael" good-bye we are soon whirling along, over the white boulevard with ribbons of powdered shell dust streaming behind our fast flying wheels.

"LOST CHARLIE ROSS"

HE IS FOUND AGAIN, AND THIS TIME IN TORONTO.

A Canadian Paper Catter Now Thought to be the Long Lost Lad—Gone to Philadelphia to be Identified.

TORONTO, Ont. March 14.—The mystery of the long lost Charlie Ross, who was abducted from the residence of his father, Christian K. Ross, of Philadelphia, July 1, 1874 may be near a solution, and there seems to be strong reason to believe that a young Toronto man known as Samuel C. Cousins, a paper cutter by trade, who works in this city is the missing lad.

Cousins is a decided blonde and looks about 25 years old. He says he remembers distinctly being kidnapped. The man who stole him, he says, had ginger-colored whiskers.

The next thing he remembers is being in France. He recalls having been baptized in the cathedral at Limoges. When Cousins was in France he was shown two boys, older than himself, who were said to be his brothers. When he was about 11 years old the family removed to England and when within fifteen miles of his father's English residence he was intentionally lost.

A short time since Cousins became acquainted with Geo. J. Stephenson, a lawyer, who was so much impressed with the coincidence between Cousins' story and the kidnapping of Charlie Ross that he communicated with Christian K. Ross, and the young man left tonight for Philadelphia to see if his identity can be established.

FOOLING THE PEOPLE.

Big File of Bills in the Treasury—But They're No Good.

The average inauguration visitor to Washington wants to see the place where Uncle Sam keeps his money. Thousands of people go to the treasury building for that purpose. There is no doubt that nearly every one of them goes away convinced that the various statements that the republican party had emptied the national cash box were campaign lies and inventions of the enemy, says the Washington Star.

They believe that instead of instead of looting the treasury the republicans have added to the millions that they found there when they resumed business at the old stand on the 4th of March four years ago. It is no wonder that visitors are deceived. There were shown bullion galore. Most of it was in the form of silver dollars. The visitor was not told that against every such dollar there was an outstanding note. A goodly showing of gold is also made. That goodly metal, what there is of it on hand, set off to the best advantage. The visitor was not told that every dollar of it might be demanded in exchange for legal tender notes at any moment, nor was it explained to him that the imminence of the demand is superinduced by republican mismanagement. It is in paper money that the treasury makes its greatest show. The visitor sees bundles of notes almost bursting their coverings. He is not told that but very few of those bills are signed, or ever will be. He is simply dazzled by the sight. Secretary Foster, it will be seen, is preserving to the very end the republican financial policy, the object of which has been all along to fool the people.

Hampton to be Commissioner of Railroads.

The office of commissioner of railroads will go to Gen. Wade Hampton of South Carolina. This announcement was made yesterday by the president to a Nebraska delegation who were urging a candidate for the place.

Beautiful Alabama Girls Present Mr. Cleveland With a Banner of Their Own Device.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The inauguration is all over, the crowd thinned out, and last night the last scene was some glorious fireworks enjoyed by thousands of people.

One of the prettiest scenes in all the pretty ones of the occasion took place at the White House this morning in the grand and historic east room. For several days two beautiful Alabama college girls have been in the city, the recipients of great attention, as Alabama girls always are when they show themselves.

These young ladies came to see the inauguration, to participate in the ball, to present Mr. C., with a banner, prepared by the faculty and pupils of the Central Female college of Tuscaloosa. They were Miss Evelyn Byrd of Birmingham, daughter of Capt. William M. Byrd and grand-daughter of the late Judge W. M. Byrd of Selma, and Miss Jennie Hester of Tuscaloosa. Miss Byrd is a true blonde of the type so often seen in the south, and Miss Hester is a lovely brunette.

It had been intended to make the occasion a state of Alabama affair by having a great many of our people there, but Mr. Cleveland set the hour so early that there was no time to look for friends, and so those with the party at the time only were present.

The young ladies were introduced to the president by Secretary of the Navy Herbert of Mr. Cleveland's cabinet in a short, appropriate address. Hon. L. W. Turpin, our congressman, had charge of the party, and his charming daughter, Miss Annie, was also present, as was Hon. M. V. Henry and Capt. W. M. Byrd.

Then the banner was presented. It is of satin, inscribed with a beautiful address from the teachers and pupils of the college, who had elected the bearers to come with it to Washington. It also had on its folds the full programme of a concert given at the college on March 4 in honor of Mr. Cleveland's inauguration.

The fair maidens were beautiful in their white uniforms, white morar board caps and white kid boots, which, with the splendid white banner, made a picture of especial beauty in that great room where all is white and gold. I feel free to say that of all the happy social occasions that has taken place in that room none was lovelier than this.

The president responded in a manner that showed more feeling than usual, and said several very nice things of southern women, and in accepting the banner said he intended to keep it forever. He then put the party in charge one of his secretaries and ordered that they be shown over the house and through the conservatories. All the house, except the east room, is closed to visitors this week. The party enjoyed the flowers and plants for two hours or more.

Although the hour of the presentation was set at 10 a. m. the east room was already crowded with visitors, and the crowd applauded our party as the president dismissed them, and the beauty of the college messengers was the talk of the room in whispers easily overheard. Those who had the pleasure of seeing the presentation got a fair idea of our charming women from the three girls who stood before the president this morning.

RESIDENTIAL ROLES

That Will Guide in the Appointment of Federal Officers.

A special telegram from Washington epitomizes the situation as follows: From direct statements by President Cleveland, Postmaster-General Bissell and other members of the cabinet, made during the week to visiting congressmen, the following code of rules can now be given as those which will govern all appointments to the public service under this administration:

1. Incumbents will be retained in office until their commissions expire, unless there is voluntary resignation. When there is no commission fixing tenure the efficient incumbent will be permitted to serve for four years from time of appointment.

2. No one who held office under the former Cleveland administration will be again appointed to office the only exceptions being railway mail clerks and postoffice inspectors.

3. No appointments will be made in states having spring state elections until after the elections have occurred.

4. All postmasters must divorce themselves from private business, excepting instances where, in the fourth class, the pay is so small that postmasters will not give undivided time to the postoffice.

5. Appointments will not be made upon magnitude of petitions or endorsements alone, but the character, appearance and evident fitness of the applicant for the place must also be considered.

6. As appointments are of an executive, and not of a political character, recommendations by primary elections will not prevail.

7. No exception will be made to rule 2 in favor of applicants who were removed from office by the last administration before they had served the full term of four years, no matter how brief their service may have been.

Rule 1 does not apply to foreign missions, to the higher grades of consuls and to assistant secretaries and chiefs of bureaus. It is intended, however, to cover that vast class of patronage included in the postoffice, internal revenue and customs service. Rule 2 is flexible, and will be made to cover appointments under the first Cleveland administration who are still in positions outside of the classified service.

The very first appointment made by this administration was no exception to this rule. This was the removal of the colored messenger at the door of the president's private secretary and the reappointment of the man who was there when Mr. Lamont was private secretary. This, however, is insignificant.

Rule 3 is designed to postpone the contentions for office until full attention has been given to the spring elections. It is felt that bitterness may be engendered among defeated candidates and their friends which might bring out apathy at the time of the elections. For this reason all candidates are expected to pay their first attention to the elections, and after that to the offices.

Three Parishes in Charge.

Rev. W. L. Millicamp, late of North Carolina, has accepted charge of the three Episcopal parishes consisting of Talladega, Jacksonville and Piedmont. He arrived in Piedmont on Thursday and conducted services at the Episcopal church last night. He will live with his family in Talladega and be here once every month.

Mr. Millicamp is a pleasant and cultured gentleman and an earnest worker, and the three parishes, which have been without a pastor for some time, welcome him heartily to his new field.—Piedmont Inquirer.

SOLD INTO SLAVERY.

A Negro Accused of Vagrancy to be Placed on the Block.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. March 14.—A special to the Times from Fayette, Mo., says: Next week Howard county will witness the second sale of vagrant negroes within her borders since the war. The victim of occasion is George Wynn. Tuesday next at the south front door of the court house, between the hours of 9 o'clock in the forenoon and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, he will be sold at public outcry for cash in hand, for a term of six months, to the highest bidder. Judge Boyd McCreary will most likely be the auctioneer on this occasion.

The first public sale of negroes took place here Monday, March 28 1892. The sale was extensively advertised and caused much comment pro and con.

Secretary Herbert was colonel of the Eighth Alabama regiment and his command was camped for a time along the Rappahannock. The union forces were along the other shore, and it was not an uncommon thing for the pickets to exchange courtesies and something more substantial. One day the colonel saw a union sentry within 15 feet of the confederate side, evidently bent on a friendly call. The colonel commanded him to come ashore, and told him he was a prisoner. The soldier obeyed, and asked the colonel to shoot him, as he preferred death to capture in such a way. There was a sort of manliness about the fellow that touched the colonel's heart; and he told him to go back, but to beware of repeating the offense. The act was characteristic of Herbert. He loved a manly man, and his nature responded to a sentiment that asked for death rather than disgrace.—Ex.

Grover Cleveland it appears has chosen the members of his cabinet from among the Presbyterians. Who can say that he has not revered and respected the religion of his father, who was a Presbyterian preacher.

What is more, every candidate for President before the people last year was a Presbyterian, even to Bidwell, the prohibition nominee. Whitelaw Reid is of the Covenant church, which believes in close communion, and all the severe and rigid form of the early Calvinistic era. When quite a boy Whitelaw joined the church at Cedarville, of which his uncle was pastor. Thirty years after, when he had become noted in politics, he sent back for a letter which would make good his membership in some New York church without another conversion. Vice President Stevenson is also a Presbyterian, and a regular Sunday attendant.

Hoke Smith, the Secretary of the Interior, has three children, one of whom is named Mary Brent. The use of the old Maryland name of Brent in Hoke Smith's family came about, says the Baltimore Sun, as follows: Robert J. Brent, a prominent lawyer of Baltimore, and Robert Hoke, of North Carolina, were at Princeton university together. They formed an intimate personal friendship, which continued in after life. Robert Hoke took a high rank in North Carolina, and was arrested by death in the beginning of a brilliant career. Each of these friends named a child for the other. SENATOR MORGAN

Still at Southampton and Attended by His Daughter.

A cablegram from London says: A correspondent called upon Senator Morgan, American representative in the Behring sea arbitration, to-day. Senator Morgan received the correspondent in bed. He spoke in feeble tones. His illness appears to be more serious than at first supposed. When the accident occurred on the steamer and he was thrown to the floor he found that his breast was covered with blood, which was flowing from a wound in his head. He bathed his head and gave no further heed to the injury. Afterward, while on deck, the senator took cold, and the inflammation settled in his eyes, rendering him helpless. The bandage was removed only yesterday.

The senator's eyesight is still troubled by the injury, and he is unable to read. He will be obliged to remain in Southampton for several days more. Senator Morgan chafes under the enforced quiet, and his last words to the correspondent were: "Tell my friends in America that I am not yet moribund." The senator is well attended by his devoted daughter, his secretary and a trained nurse, and everything that can be done is being done to hasten his recovery.

Second Blind Tom.

Everybody in Alabama remembers the original Blind Tom, who was the property of Col. Betlune, of Milledgeville, Ga.

There is another negro like him of which the Memphis Avalanche says: Rev. J. H. Manley, colored, missionary secretary of African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church is in the city accompanied by Blind Tom No. 2.

This Blind Tom No. 2, is a cousin of the famous sightless negro pianist, hails from the same State and county, and as a pianist he is a marvel.

Yesterday at Omohundro's music house he played several pieces for some gentlemen, with marked beauty of harmony and correctness of time. Blind Tom, No. 2, has been sightless since infancy. He is now 25 years of age. From his appearance no one would judge for a moment that he had any talents or ambition greater than that of being a good plowboy. However, when he once passes his long, ebony finger over piano keys, one realizes that he is a master of the instrument.

Last night Blind Tom, No. 2, gave a recital at the A. M. E. Church of this city and delighted a large audience of colored people.

AS IT SEEMED.

"There are four ex-editors in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet—Messrs. Carlisle, Smith, Lamont and Morton. This indicates that editorial brains run this country. This will be some consolation to the editors in knowing the status of the cabinet. They will naturally feel that the ex-editors know how it is themselves" and that a fellow feeling makes us a wondrous kind."—Huntville Mercury.

It is necessary to add that this expresses the situation as it seemed last week.—Age Herald.

Small manufacturing enterprises build cities, and from which every class of people are benefited. The merchant is benefitted, because he sells more groceries and dry goods, and gets the cash; the doctor, because he has more patients; the butcher, because he sells more meat; the real estate owners, because the demand for houses and lands is greater; the railroads, because they carry more freight and passengers; the bankers, because they have more depositors; the laboring classes, because there is greater demand for their services; and the farmer, because he has a cash home market for his products.—Selma Times.

This is a very material change in the law and every account must be accurately made out and sworn to. The Auditor asked the co-operation of the Sheriffs in enforcing the law and much saving to the State is expected to result therefrom.—Montgomery Advertiser.

The banks are offering gold to the government in exchange for an equal amount of treasury notes of small denominations so readily that there is now no prospect of any trouble. The Chicago banks recently offered to exchange $8,000,000 in gold, and in doing so to a great extent consulted their own convenience. There is a scarcity of notes in denominations of $20 and under for active circulation, and since the people prefer notes to coin for ordinary purposes, the banks want the notes and are quite willing to give gold for them. And then there is another motive for their action. A general destruction of confidence in the maintenance of the gold standard would be a public calamity in which the banks would be deeply involved, and it is to their interest to sustain confidence, therefore, they can do this in no better way than by showing confidence themselves. By offering gold in exchange for notes, the best possible proof is furnished that in their opinion there is no immediate danger of a lapse to the silver basis.—Montgomery Advertiser.

BOOK FARMING.

Brains and Scientific Knowledge Necessary to Success.

The time has come when book farming has become necessary to success. The man who farms without system and without some knowledge and understanding of the needs and growth of what he plants and cultivates, will be sadly behind his neighbor, who follows that plan. The most successful farmer in North Carolina is said to be Mr. T. J. King, a bachelor of thirty residing at Lenoir. He is called a book farmer, because he uses his brains and scientific knowledge in his business. In 1890 he produced 1,350 pounds lint, three bales, on one acre, the largest yield ever known in the State. At one of our Piedmont exhibitions his exhibit alone covered 1,600 square feet of space, and included sixty varieties of corn, thirty-four of cotton, forty-three species of hay and grasses, ten of tobacco, ninety-six specimens of garden crops, twenty-two kinds of wine, 150 jars preserves, jellies, etc., with many varieties of wheat oats, peas and potatoes. He was the youngest exhibitor at the exposition and took the first prize on several of his exhibits.

WALKING TO TEXAS.

Mr. J. Tom Moore has as much nerve as any man in the country as will be shown by the following.

This morning at 4 o'clock he started to Fort Worth, Texas, and it is his intention to pull his mother all the way in a rickety two-wheel cart.

Besides his sister who has two children aged 7 and 13 will accompany him and they too, propose to walk every step of the way.

And this is not all; Mr. Moore is the father of a small 15 year-old girl, and she too, will walk the entire distance.

For the past twenty-five years Mr. Moore, who is about 40 years of age, has been a resident of Lee county and for several months past he has acted in the capacity of a cow boy for Mr. Barto Smith.

Mr. Moore started to a gentleman yesterday that he had long since heard of the cow boys of Texas and wanted to become one. "I am a poor man," he said, "and have always tried to live up to the maximum that if you can't get pudding you must take pie, and that is what I am going to do in this instance. The pudding would be to purchase a ticket for myself and family and heard the cars for Texas. But this I am unable to do, so I am going to take the pie—that is if you can call walking across three states, a distance of over 1000 miles, pie."

Friends of Mr. Moore tried to persuade him, but to no avail, he wanted to visit the Lone Star State, of which he had heard so much, and all their entreaties made no apparent impression upon him. He was asked to define his route but declined, giving as his reason, that he did not know. "I will go," he said, "inquire as I go as to the nearest way, and sooner or later I will get there." The News hopes Mr. Moore will succeed in his undertaking and wishes him much success after he arrives.—Opelika Daily News.

The negroes who were enticed from their farms in Macon and Houston counties Ga., by getting promises in Oklahoma are beginning to write home. Very few of them ever got to Oklahoma, the agent steering them to the Mississippi bottoms where they find less profitable labor than they lost.

They are making it hot for the blind tigers down in Dublin, Ga. The ladies of the town hired a detective to break the blind tigers up. He did so, and was presented with a gold-headed cane as a mark of appreciation. The boys do not seem to have been in it.

Mr. William Woodruff, of Dooley county, Ga., died in his buggy while returning from Montezuma to his home last Wednesday. Mr. Woodruff was very old and a great sufferer from wounds received in the Mexican, Indian and Confederate wars. He was a highly respected and honorable citizen.

The Farmers Alliance.

New York, March 14.—An important letter from Mr. McQuinn, editor of the official organ of the Farmers Alliance, was read at the meeting of the Central Labor Union. The letter, which was thought to indicate a break between the Alliance and People's Party, is in part as follows:

"I believe the true interests of the farmers and the laborers are in harmony, and much good may be accomplished by securing a better understanding between these two great classes, and by co-operating in many ways. I realize that the greatest obstacles to such a desirable condition of affairs at this time is the supposed political connection of the Alliance, and I know that this has also been a great injury to the Alliance.

"But there is a large majority of the Alliance who are making a brave and determined fight against the domination of any political party, and they are determined to reserve the Alliance free from all political entanglements as fraternal and co-operative labor union."

The letter wound up by an appeal to the Central Labor Union for assistance in bringing about a better understanding between the rural and urban workers.

"We can conceive of no greater injury to the administration," says the Albany Argus (Dem.), "than is done by one of its friends who consents to recommend an appointment, or even sign a petition for an appointment, which he himself, if he had the power, would, for any reason, decline to make. It is treachery when the administration, deluded by the advice of its propped friends upon whom it relies, finds itself cheated by advice not honestly given."

Twenty years ago, the commissioners of Fulton county, Ga., bought 300 acres on the Peachtree road, about five miles from Atlanta, and paid only $8 an acre. Chairman Hummelt of the board of commissioners says he thinks he can now sell the tract for $400 an acre. Only twelve years ago $3,000 was paid for a site for an almshouse, and now the county can sell the place for $120,000.

PUZZLING THE PHYSICIAN

Heleas, March 12.—A young colored man of the county is puzzling the physicians of this vicinity. About a year ago, while having an epileptic fit he fell into an open fireplace, and when found he was lying in the fire in an unconscious condition. His scalp, the muscles of his head, and the bones of the left side, as well as the fingers covering the left shoulder were parched. He was in an unconscious condition for two days and recollected no incident happening prior to his regaining consciousness. The bone and flesh were burned from his head, to such an extent that the pulsation of the brain could be felt. Very little medical attention was given him, only household remedies being applied. The burns removed one half of the skull.

A REMARKABLE CURE

Heifer Calf at Glen Mary Without Eyes or Tail.

A miscarriage of nature to which freak hunters have not yet called attention is a tailless and eyeless heifer calf, the property of Albert Turner, a negro miner of Glen Mary, Tenn. The sockets of the animal's eyes are of normal size, but eyelashes and eyeballs are entirely lacking. The eyelids are closed and about one third of an inch long. When pulled apart a small fleshy growth like the end of a tendon or the enlarged nerve of the eye is seen to replace the ball. The ridge-bone of the back instead of tapering into the cartilaginous tail, ends abruptly and a hair-covered cavity that would hold an egg emphasizes the point where that member usually begins and the backbone ends.—Chattanooga Daily Times.

"THE MIDNIGHT HOUR."

New York, March 12.—In speaking of his work, Prof. Totten stated today in an interview that he had not the shadow of a doubt as to the general accuracy of his chronological work, nor as to its particular accuracy within the necessary personal equation of all human effort. He maintains that we are actually in the "midnight hour," specified in the parable of the ten virgins.

The clock, said the professor, is striking; the tenth stroke will end its sounding at the coming March equinox, the eleventh in June, and the twelfth, or final stroke, at the September equinox of the current year. After that none of the "virgins" need be in further doubt as to the "time" or as to what or who is at hand.

"Many facts," he continued, "assure me that we are at the midnight hour of the Christian dispensary, and I am sure that the 7th angel of the Saviour's revelation to St. John is soon to sound the seventh and final trumpet, which lifts the veil from the mystery of God, but which is not to be confused with the 'final trumpet' as commonly understood. In spite of misrepresentations to the contrary, I do not anticipate the end of the world, but the beginning of a new and better dispensation. I anticipate a crisis 'tomorrow' and the millennium 'the day after.' I expect the first resurrection very soon but not the second until a thousand years of golden age have sped away.

The professor sets forth with great detail his reason for his belief.

P. M. General Bissell reports that he has received the resignations of no less than 5,000 postmasters, and many of these are from postmasters of the first class who receive their appointment from the President. In view of the popular impression that faithful officials will be permitted to serve out their terms, it is a little remarkable that these gentlemen should choose to come down without any intimation from Congress that it would be well for them to do so.

DOMESTIC CATECHISM

A Sharp Husband Hits Upon a Grand Scheme to Save Trouble.

The other day a thin, tired looking man entered the job office of the Boston Globe, and, approaching the foreman, said: "I want to have a list printed. Suppose you write it down as I tell you."

"The proprietor made ready, and the man said:

"Yes, I am sure I locked the front door. Have you got that?"

"Yes, but I don't understand."

"Never mind, don't interrupt me till I have finished. Are you ready?"

"Yes."

"I turned out the light in the bath room."

"All right, I've got it."

"The kitchen windows are fastened."

"Yes."

"The dog is in the cellar."

"Yes."

"The servants are all in."

"Yes."

"The stable door is locked."

"Yes."

"The kitten is out of doors."

"Yes."

"I turned off the draughts of the range."

"Yes."

"No, I do not smell smoke."

"Yes."

"No, the water is not running in the bathroom."

"Yes."

"I do not think I hear anyone trying to get into the house."

"Yes."

"No, that is not our dog barking; it's the one next door."

"Yes."

"It is not necessary to go down and see if the cellar door is fastened. I know it is."

"Yes."

"That is nobody; it is only the wind rattling the shutters."

"Yes."

"Well, I think that's about all. You see, my wife asks me certain questions every night just as I am getting into bed, and if I had a printed list I could show to her; it would save lots of trouble. Besides that, it injures my lungs to answer them. Have the lists printed as soon as possible, please."

ALL THE INK.

With Which Paper Money is Printed Made by One Man.

One man makes all the ink with which the United States Government prints its paper money. His father invented the ink, but he never told anybody how he did it until just before he died, when he let his son into the secret, says The Ladies Home Journal. Had an untimely accident gathered the inventor to his fathers before he told his son about the ink the Government printer would have been in a bad way, for this is the only kind of ink that will print the peculiar surface of the fiber of which Government note paper is made. The maker employs only six men in the manufacture of his ink, and none of them is in the secret, nor has any one yet seen the interesting act of mixing the ingredients of which the ink is composed. The owner of the secret locks himself up in his own room two weeks in each year, and it is there and then that he mixes stuff enough to supply the Government with ink for the ensuing twelve months. The process of locking himself up surrounds him with an air of romance something like that of the man whom Balzac made to search for the alchemist, the only difference being that the alchemist fellow shut himself up for a lifetime and got nothing, besides alienating the affections of his wife, while the other locks himself up for two weeks and gets $50,000 a year.

The first embraces the counties of DeKalb, Marshall and St. Clair; the other Conecuh, Clarke, Escambia and Monroe. Bids and proposals are now being received.—Montgomery Advertiser.

QUALITY

Is the "bone and sinew" of every garment in our stock, and our reputation. Every day sells the chorus of praise that comes to the success of our achievements. The hundreds of patrons already sounded the depths of our stock, and this season are saying THAT WE MAKE THE CLOTHING WE SELL SEEMS EVERYONE WITH CONFIDENCE. We claim for it, but in

It is the Finest that Can be Made

Cause is the parent of effect. We couldn't give you the service entitled to—depend on the trade for our supply, so we jump, break ourselves, rolled up our sleeves and went to work on the Most Expert Artists, and kept zealous watch over every one could come out of such a combination of perfection. Make no mistake. All we need is a hint of your desires, and we send you a stock of Full Suits and Overcoats that far exceed in quality and variety the vain boasts of others as to drop them into the security. Judge by facts, not fancies. Call at our establishment exclusively to our stock of crowded to their utmost capacity, with the latest patterning. Then bring this magnificent display in contrast with the meager others are showing.

Roll the resources of any three of them together, and we are taking our prices into account. The same enterprise that produces such qualities has curtailed the costs. We have brought both ends of the line together—The Highest Values and the Lowest Prices. In our grades from $10 to $40, in both Suits, Overcoats, you may be getting

FULL VALUE

In the Boy's and Children's Department you will find we have fickle fashion through all her various moods. The superior quality insist shall be a known quality in everything we show, leaves no most notable fountains to draw from. Two Piece Short Pants Suits, Pants Suits, Heaters or Overcoats, are all original effects, selected made up to our notion, and left to our exclusive control. We are ing idly. These are facts, and you need not be a clothing expert to state them. They are self-evident.

Calls are being made for the heavier overgarments. Ours are tuned on the same chord of consistent perfection, what a wealth is awaiting your inspection.

CORRESPONDENCE.

From Mr. Ott Smith, a
Mer Calhoun County
Man.

Tex. Mar. 12, 1893.

REPUBLICAN:—I am well with the outlook here, and the finest farming country I

but almost frontier. It settled up rapidly, and improvements. Lands will high here, as it is a very

de. You can make 20 to 33

wheat per acre; 39 to 125

oats, 20 to 50 bushels of and it is thought will be a country when we once get started. Vines of all deon do well here. Farming is sure here. We have plowed acres of prairie sod and not taken two wheelbarrows

grubs up. We hitch four to a gang plow and will,

plow all day, and not hit a sprout. One man can put acres and cultivate it. In time, he will have to have on to stack after binder. So we are not dependent any

on free negro labor, all work done by white men here, and

and they won't allow negroes

among them. I only of two or three in the county.

will say this much: if any of ends come to Texas, would them to charter a car and stock, wagons, household and furniture, as everything is high here, except horses and horses bring a good price. If back in the states, expect to

to the Pan Handle country

over the better, as they will

to pay high for land very but $20 to $30 is not high for and will no doubt go even than that. You can now buy

$5 to $20 per acre owing to

low. There was 470 acres all bottom, sold a few days

for $11.00; I never saw a nicer

of land. I was over a wheat today, 1200 acres, the finest I saw. There has been about 1000 or 2000 acres of sod put in

at and oats since last fall, and prospect for a heavy crop was more flattering than now.

We have a good deal of small

here, duck, geese, turkey, chickens, quail, plover and also some deer and antelope.

We have coyotes by the drove;

prairie dogs, owls, rabbits

and snakes all stay with the

in their dens.

We are joining the Comanche Inand are about 40 miles from Sill; they trot their ponies to Chita Falls in a day. It is said to be the cream of the T. T. The man among them or chief is Annah Porter; he has horses and

and is said to be quite a polman and a very shrewd man. It thought the Comanche country

be open for settlement in a short time, but it will be filed a day. They are now in tents waiting for the opening. The Pan handle farmers say there is room for 50,000 people without crowding

the Fort Sill country; they say if the title to Green is vested in

S. S. that the new country bordering the Comanche reservation on the west, will have 100,000 people in 90 days. In short, this is the best country I ever saw. We have ly cured and always find relief in this climate.

My letter is already too long.

After the crop matures I will perhaps write again; will know more from experience. With many kind regards to my friends, I am

Respectfully,

Ott Smith.

VIRGINIA AHEAD.

The Season of Snake Stories

Begins at the Big End.

Despite repeated warnings and numberless 'horrible examples,' the Fredericksburg (Va.) Lance, is determined to be 'in it' this season, and unblushingly starts out with the following story:

A young professional gentleman of this city recently traveled overland to Tappanhook. On the route he discovered a large black snake slowly crawling among the branches of a tree that stood by the roadside. Following the snake with his eye, the observer saw an unusually large hornet's nest attached to one of the branches of the tree, and toward which the snake was advancing. When close to the nest the snake coiled itself about a limb, released its tail, and with it gave several hard raps upon the exterior of the nest, as if knocking for admission. The noise of the blows, and the swaying of the nest caused the hornets to leave their home and prepare for an attack upon the intruder. The snake ceased tapping with its tail as soon as the hornets left the nest;

uncoiled itself and quickly disappeared, taking the place of the hornets within their nest.

Presently the snake's head was seen to peer out, and his bright

black eyes glistened as he anticipated a feast from which the bravest man would shrink with fear. The snake drew his head within the entrance hole to the nest until nothing was seen of it except an occasional forked tongue that darted in and out with lightning rapidity.

Thinking the coast clear, the hornets began to return to their nest,

when the snake took them in as rapidly as they could enter. Watching the proceeding for some time,

our informant concluded that all the hornets had been safely hived,

and he stood up in his buggy, tapped the nest with his whip, and awaited the result.

No hornets appearing, the nest

was then knocked to the ground, opened, and his snakeship discovered in a torpid condition, with his size greatly increased. The snake was killed and a post-mortem held,

with the following result. Stomach stuffed with dead hornets. W.

S. White, attorney for the commonwealth for Stafford county, vouches

for the truth of the story.

President Cleveland's Advice

to Office Seekers.

Washington, March 11.—President Cleveland said to some office seekers today that there was plenty of time to get all the offices, and they need not get excited.

"I really cannot see what difference it makes whether your tenure

begins first, second or third month

The postmaster general gave the same advice.

WHITE CAPS INDICTED.

They Killed an Innocent Man
in Indiana Six Years Ago.

Owensboro, Ky., March 20.—

Eleven well-known farmers of Perry and Crawford counties, Indiana, are under indictment charged with the murder of John Davidson, a well-known farmer of Crawford county.

Six years ago these eleven men were members of a gang of white caps, who terrorized this section

many years. Davidson was suspected of complicity in the alleged abduction and outrage of a big boxing Irish girl, named Annie Hannigan. Davidson was taken from his home at night, subjected to horrible torture to force a confession.

Failing to extort any confession,

these savages hung him from a limb of a small tree. It was soon proven that Mr. Davidson had no knowledge of the alleged outrage

of the Irish girl, but the secrets of the white caps were so well kept that no direct evidence against them could be presented in court. One of the leaders of the gang, named

Otto Ortonberg, was convicted upon another charge at the last term of court at Cannelton and sentenced to a long term in the penitentiary,

and another turned state's evidence which led to the indictment of these eleven members. They have paid

a firm of lawyers at Cannelton $5,-

000 to defend them.

France's Ablest Man.

Jules Ferry, whose remains now lie in state awaiting a gorgeous funeral next Wednesday, was the ab-leest man in France, though never popular. In fact, his hold on the masses was slight. He had none of the tricks of the demagogue and never made those pyrotechnic displays which the French populace loves so well and which his inferior contemporaries practised with remarkable success.

But he was a broad-minded, bold and well equipped statesman. He did more than other men to crush

the life out of the Bonapartist craze

and for that France owes him a lasting debt of gratitude.

In the last years of his life his countrymen came to a juster appreciation of his merits, and now that he is dead they realize that few of their public men who are left measure up to his standard.

France will try to atone for her injustice to the living by lavishing splendid honors on the dead.

A Smart Doctor's Advertising

Dodge.

It is contrary to medical ethics,

you know, for doctors to advertise themselves, and the "regulars"

dub a man a "quack" who does it.

Some few of them manage to advertise in a round-about way now and then, and the following good story is told of a doctor who flourished in Atlanta some years ago.

He was an able practitioner and withal a good doctor, but he lacked patients and his scarcity of patronage was entirely due to the fact that he had never had an opportunity of getting his name before the public. After a while there was scarcely a Sunday but what some preacher was asked to state that "if Dr.—was in the congrega-

Two Lives and $100,000
Worth of Property Lost
in the Flames.

Nashville, Tenn., March 20.—

The most disastrous fire in the history of Athens, Ala., occurred today.

At 4 a. m. flames were discovered in the Mammoth store building and the fire spread rapidly. Eight large and handsome buildings on the east side of the public square

were destroyed.

TWO LIVES LOST.

Two lives are known to have been lost. One of these was a young man named William Chandler, of McKenzie, Tenn., who was a student at the agricultural station and school. The other was a colored man, Oscar Brown, who was press-

man for the Courier Publishing

Company.

The two men lost their lives in the store of W. B. Russell & Co., while trying to save the goods. The walls of an adjoining building fell,

and they were crushed beneath the debris.
